Concerning	Am	Author	Vote	Comments
Recital 18	22	Simona Bonafè	+	Incineration is a good method of recovering metals that would be otherwise landfilled. Hence, Member States should be able to count such metals towards recycling targets.
Article 1 – paragraph 1 – point 2 – point f	52	Simona Bonafè	-	Underground excavated areas are a particularly suitable place for storing hazardous waste as they ensure that the hazardous substances does not contaminate the groundwater.

Recital 7	205 213 (identical)	Piernicola Pedicini, Marco Affronte, Eleonora Evi	-	Waste-to-Energy complements Circular Economy and should not be treated as equal to landfilling. A ban on incineration will not change unrecyclable nature of some waste.
Recital 7	209	Annie Schreijer-Pierik	+	Waste-to-Energy should be recognised as a source of secure and affordable energy.
Recital 7	211	Kateřina Konečná	+	Incineration charges would increase costs of waste management for citizens as unrecyclable waste will need to be incinerated or landfilled anyway.
Recital 7	212	Christopher Fjellner	+	As in Am 211.
Recital 18	312	Kateřina Konečná	-	Incineration is a good method of recovering metals that would be
